DRUMORE TOWNSHIP
THE LONG FAMILY OF ~~XXXXXX~~ LANCASTER COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

The section of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, lying between Conestoga Manor and the present line of Maryland, and contiguous ~~the~~ parts of the latter province, as well as adjoining parts of Chester and New Castle counties, was largely settled by Ulster Scots, commonly known as "Scotch-Irish", though the latter name is somewhat of a misnomer, and resented by many of the best informed of their descendants. They were in no sense Irish, though coming to Pennsylvania from that country. The troublous times in Scotland, resulting from civil and religious strife, augmented by jealousy and local strife between rival clans, drove a great number of Scots to settle in the Province of Ulster, North Ireland, in the last quarter of the seventeenth century. From here between the years 1710, and 1750, vast numbers of them came to Pennsylvania, and settled principally in colonies, made up to a great extent of families more or less related to each other. This ^{latter fact being} ~~is~~ true of nearly all the Scotch-Irish settlements in different parts of Pennsylvania.

The principal ports of landing of these Ulster Scots were Philadelphia and New Castle. Most of those landing at the former place, settling up the vacant lands in upper and central Bucks, and northern Chester County, with isolated families in Philadelphia, now Montgomery County. The Bucks settlers pushing northward into what is now Lehigh and Northampton County.

Those landing at New Castle, however, found homes in Delaware, the ~~east~~ eastern shore of Maryland, and the southern part of Pennsylvania, now comprising the counties of Lancaster and York, and portions of New London and Nottingham townships in Chester County. From these points they pushed on and expanded westward and northward, and with the adventurous spirit of their race, became the vanguard of the army of settlers which rapidly peopled the wilderness west of the Susquehanna, and soon pressed over^{and} the Alleghenys into Fayette, Westmoreland counties, and a generation later, on to the Ohio, and the "Dark and Bloody Ground to its southward, as well as down the eastern slope of the Alleghenys into Virginia, and the Carolinas.

The earliest expansion was not along parallel lines, but more in the nature of waves on a sandy beach, in cresent form, and on lines of the least resistance, up against the mountains in nearly a half circle, with the neighborhood of New Castle on the head of the Chesapeake as the centre of its base. One cannot look at the map of Pennsylvania and note in the shape of the southern-central counties, the successive advances made in this form by these waves of migration, westward and northward. That is true of the general migration from this early settlement is also true of the family under consideration, hence this digression.

Historians differ as to the date of the first settle ment of the region bordering on the Susquehanna in the present county of Lancaster, in the valleys of its tributaries the Octorara, Pequea and Conestogoe, by the Ulster Scots. Some place it as early as 1700, and some even earlier, but the truth probably is that very few if any of them arrived before 1710, and no general Colony of them prior to 1730 or 1735; the latter being the dates at which the Scotch-Irish began to arrive in any great numbers in Pennsylvania. That they did settle in this section before the bounds of the lands acquired from the Indians were definitely settled and before the land office was established for their survey, is a well-known fact. For this reason it is almost impossible to ascertain from civil records the exact date of their settlement, and in many cases the names of the first settlers.

By a system then in vogue actual settlers acquired a title to their "improvement", which was often the only title except that of possession which they ever held. It being an inheritable right, the lands passed to their heirs, who later took out warrants of survey, paid the arrearages of quit-rent and received a patent. Much of the land held by the Long family in the townships of Drumore, Little Britain and Martick, Lancaster county, was patented at different periods from 1757 to 1812. Very large tracts contiguous to each other being surveyed and patented for the first time between the years 1795 and 1810; whereas it is a well-known fact that all the land in that section had been taken up and actually settled long before the Revolutionary War. The only explanation of this fact is, that it was in the possession of the family one, two, and three generations before a fee title was actually confirmed in regular form. In many cases there was doubtless transfers of warrants of Survey, representing definite locations, and in most cases surveys returned into the Surveyor-General's office, but no patent issued by the commissioners of property, either through carelessness of the purchaser or failure or inability to pay the entire purchase price.

Tradition relates that the first American ancestor of the Long family under consideration, was ROBERT LONG, who came to the Pequea Valley in 1688. That this Robert took up land there which descended to his sons Hugh and John, the latter dying without issue, and the former being the father of John, James and Robert Long, and their sisters, Martha Brotherson, Elizabeth Watson, and Isabel Long, the latter the wife of William Long. These being the first of the family in which we are interested of whom we have any definite, authentic and clear record. Tradition also relates that Robert Long, the first had a daughter Margaret, who married the father of Robert Fulton, of steamboat fame, or at least some near relative of his. We have not been able to verify this however, though it does appear that Robert Fulton, the first was closely associated with the Long family in Drumore, and one James Fulton, (said to have been a son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Stewart) Fulton, of Donegal, Lancaster county,) who died about 1760, married Margaret, whose maiden name is said to have been Long, and had sons, Samuel, John, Hugh, and James.

A diligent search of land warrants, surveys and patents at Harrisburg, and of deeds, wills, church and other records in Lancaster and Chester County, fail to give us any definite evidence of the existence of a Robert Long, of sufficient antiquity, to have been the grandfather of John Long, the "sickle-maker", of Drumore, born 1726.

The same is nearly true of Hugh, as a possible father. However, somebody seems to have owned the land taken up by warrants of survey, by the said Long and other cotemporary members of the family before it was so taken up, and in a deed made by the heirs of John Long, the "sickle-maker" for land in Martick township in 1780, is recited the grant to him of 137 Acres, by patent from "Thomas and Richard Penn, Proprietaries, &c. dated September 2, 1762", in which both the adjoining landowners named in that patent and those then holding said lands is given. And adjoining this tract on the west was the tract of John Long's brother Robert Long of Martick township who died in 1803. This tract is referred to in the heirs' deed as "Hugh Long, now Robert Long's", though a search of its title shows that it was surveyed to Robert on Warrant of Survey issued to Robert, dated August 11, 1760. This is the only tangible evidence of the existence of a Hugh Long as the father of the family with which the authentic record of this family begins, namely, John Long, the sickle maker and his brothers and sisters, six in number.

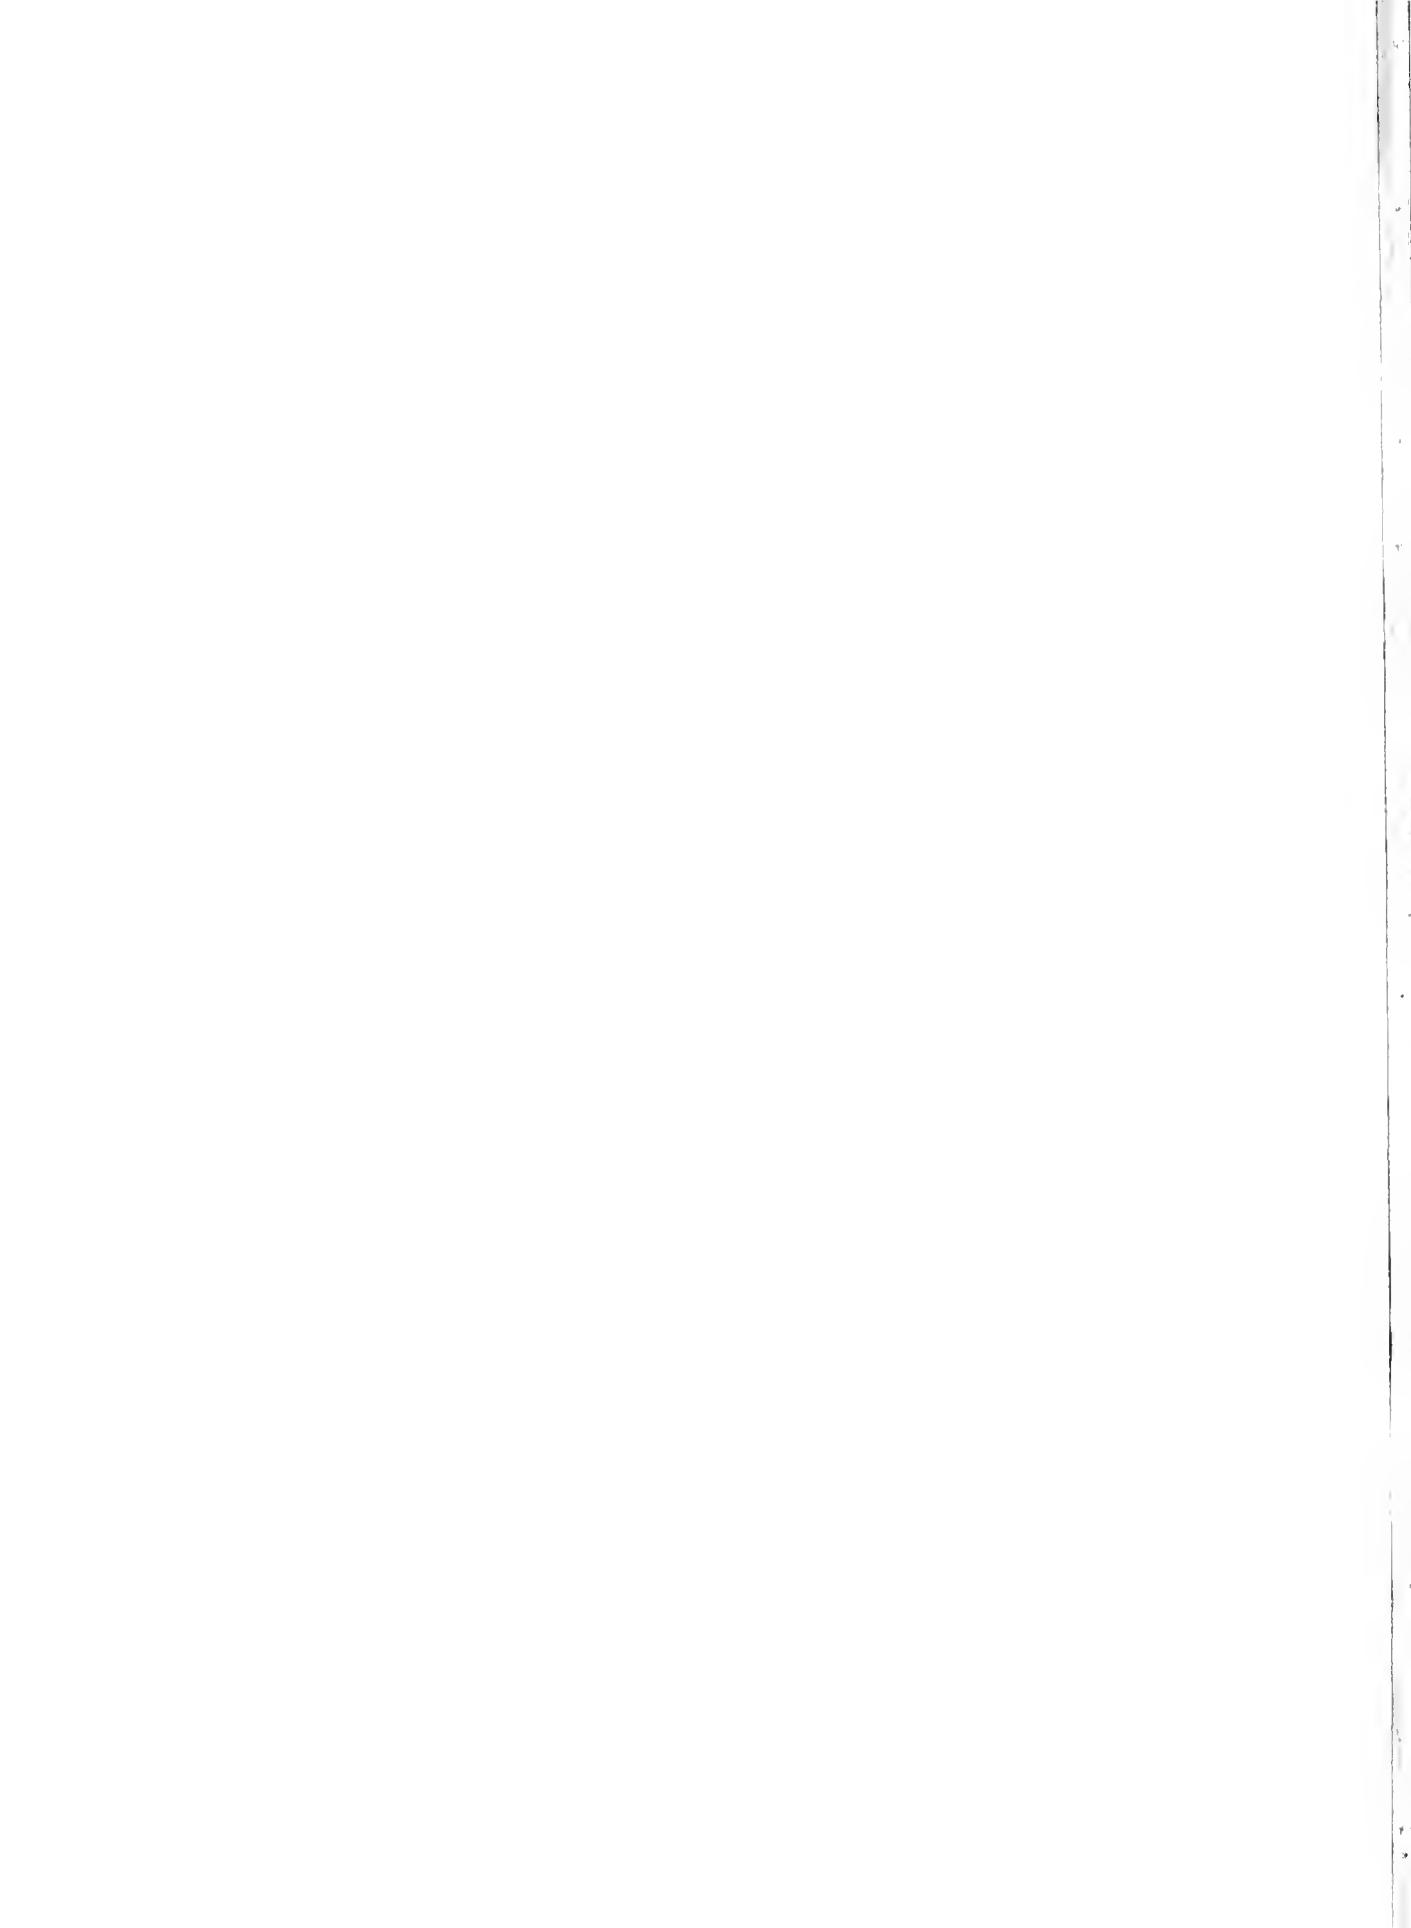

LONG FAMILY OF DRUMORE TOWNSHIP, LANCASTER COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.
BY WARREN S. ELY.

There was however a Hugh Long in Drumore township, who on April 17, 1750, assigned to his brother John Long, of the same place "all right and possession, claim and demand, of and in all that certain tract of land and plantation whereon said Hugh Long dwells, situate in Drumore township, joining lands of William ~~pyeson~~, Edward Brine, - - - Green, Meadow Ball, Charles Harrow, Jeremiah Smith and John Reed." The contents of this tract is not given in the settlement, which is entered of record in the office of the Recorder of Deeds &c. at Lancaster. No deed appears of record by John Long, in which the assignment is recited.

By plotting out the different tracts surveyed to the several members of the Long family in Martick and Drumore township it is found that in most cases they represent the parts of larger tracts apparently divided by an amicable arrangement, not of record and surveyed and patented to different individuals, members of the same family.

The names of the brothers and sisters of John Long the sickle maker are ascertained from the will of Rev. James Long his brother probated in 1803 which, the testator dying childless, devises legacies to his brother's and sisters and their children. Among these legatees is a sister Isabel Long, wife of William Long of Martick township, who was doubtless a cousin, and received through his wife, an allotment of the land in Martick township, evidently descending from a common ancestor, on which William and Isabel executed a mortgage to James the brother of Isobel in 1770.

Tradition further relates that the original settlement of Robert Long, the traditional grandfather, was in the present limits of Little Britain township, probably that part now included in Fulton township, Drumore, one of the original townships of Lancaster County, organized August 5, 1729, originally extended from the Maryland line on the south to the Pequea Creek on the north and from the Susquehanna on the West to the West Branch of the Octorara on the east. Little Britain was cut off the southern side in 1753, comprising the present townships of Fulton and Little Britain. Drumore, the name derived from "Druin Moir" signifying a great ridge, a strong fortified place in County Down, Ireland, was originally settled by the Scotch Irish, "as early as 1730", says Evans in his History of Lancaster. No ~~proof~~ proof has however been adduced of any settlement there at that period, and while there may have been isolated settlers there earlier its actual settlement by the Scotch-Irish who gave it the name and founded ~~the~~ there the Presbyterian Church of Drumore, now Chestnut Level, was much more likely about the year 1735 or a little later.

The earliest tax lists quoted by Evans is 1750, and on that of Drumore for that year appears the names of Peacock Long, Hugh Long, John Long, Robert Long, William Long, "living with John Long", John Ward, "living with Hugh Long", and Claude Long, "living with Patrick Long". A Patrick Long lies buried at Chestnut Level, his tombstone bearing the inscription, "Here lies the body of Patrick Long who departed this life October 10, 1741" or "1747".

The year is somewhat illegible and it is impossible to determine whether it was intended as 1741 or 1747, the upward stroke of the figure "1" in the old style may have been intended for a "7". This is the oldest inscription in the name of Long, though it is stated that the family were among the founders of the church in 1730. The tax list of 1750, gives "Hugh Long, living on John Long's land" 100 acres; "John Long, ^{Robert} Taylor"; "John Long, Smith" and "John Long, Tavern Keeper". That of 1760 adds to these "Claude Long" 60 acres; Hugh Long, without land; and William Long, without land; Robert Long being taxed for 100 acres; John Long, Smith for 100 acres; and another John Long for ~~65~~ 65 acres.

All of these are accounted for in surveys, deeds, wills or subsequent tax lists, except Patrick Long, the appearance of whose name on tax lists many years after his death we are unable to account for. Claudius Long, was taxed for 150 acres in Drumore in 1771 and 1773, and for a like quantity of land in Franksstown, Huntingdon County in 1789.

The Robert Long, mentioned on all three of the tax lists above quoted was not of the direct line of John Long the sickle maker. He received a warrant of survey for land in Drumore and Little Britain, ~~March 27, 1748~~, and purchased the right of William McIntyre in a warrant dated March 18, 1748, and on ~~March 27, 1749~~, there was surveyed to him in right of these two warrants, 128 acres on Peter's Creek, a draft of which is on file and recorded at Harrisburg, a copy of which is here-to attached. It was recorded Nov. 2, 1770, and by will dated March 2, 1795, devised it to his son Robert, who on April 17, 1802, conveyed it to James Hambleton, of Solebury, Bucks County, who settled thereon. This will proved March 25, 1799, mentions his sons William and James as being already provided for; names sons Stephen and Joseph, daughters, Martha wife of James MacPherson; Mary, wife of William Long; Elinor and Margaret Long. The will of Elinor Long, the daughter who died unmarried in 1811, gives us further details in reference to the family. William Long, the son-in-law married Mary Long, at St. James P.E. Church, Lancaster, ~~May 25, 1790~~, and another William Long, presumably the son married at the same church May 19, 1790, Jane Grimes. Stephen Long was likewise married at the same church, June 11, 1790, Catharine Atkinson. The wide range of dates of marriage would indicate that there were two lots of children. Robert was joined in the conveyance of 1802, by wife Catharine.

John Long, mentioned as "Tavern Keeper" on the tax list of 1759, was a son of another John Long of Drumore, who died intestate in 1744, leaving a widow Mary, who on March 7, 1743/7, applied to the Orphans' Court of Lancaster County, for a division of his estate and the appointment of guardians for his children. John Turbit was appointed guardian of the three minor children, Ann, Margaret and Elizabeth, and the estate was distributed to the widow ^{John} ~~John~~, the eldest son, evidently only son, and to daughters, Mary, Catharine, Ann, Margaret and Elizabeth.

~~NOTES~~ A warrant of survey was granted to John Long, December 1, 1742 by virtue of which there was surveyed to him March 23, 1743/4, 66 acres of land in Drumore township, but whether this was the father or son is problematical, probably the son, since in 1770, John the son also died intestate and his son John Long applied for partition of the 66 acres of which his father had died seized, to the Orphans' Court held January 6, 1770. This resulted in the appointment of James Long of Martick township, as guardian of Baxter and James Long, minor children over fourteen years of age; and of John Long, Jr., of Drumore, as guardian of Martha and Patrick Long, minor children over fourteen. The guardians being respectively, Rev. James Long, and his brother John Long, the sickle maker, of the family with which this narrative is specially interested. Thus strongly indicating a close relationship, and the appearance of the name of Patrick among children suggesting the possibility of not probability of the Patrick Long of 1741 or 1747, as a common ancestor. The widow John the intestate, Margaret married John Turbit, prior to January 12, 1779, on which date, she, with her second husband executed the following quaint renunciation of dower rights in the property of her first husband, John Long.

"To the Worshipfull Justices of the Orphans' Court of the County of Lancaster:-

WHEREAS, John Long, late of Drumore Township died intestate, being possessed of a small estate, Real and Personal, which by the Laws of the Commonwealth, the Widow of the deceased ~~is~~ Intitled to one third of the real estate during her natural life:-

NOW KNOW YE, that we, the subscribers, John Tobet & Margaret Turbet, alias Long, for the Love and Affection and Good Will we bear to our Children, by Nature and Law, to wit, the children of the said John Long, deceased, Do by these Presents, quit Claim for ever to them our privilege by Law as above, and Do in like manner pray Your Worships - That when you make portion of the above estate that instead of your Allowing one-third to us you will allow only one-eighth part which is only one Child's share. And We Do Pray that The Contents of this Instrument may be entered on your records of our charge, as We Do Find Ourselves and our Heirs in the Possession of Five hundred Pounds, to be recorded in any Court of Record here or elsewhere in any of The United States of America, Faithfully to be abid by the same.

Proved by the affidavit of Moses Irwin, Esq., - - - - - before John Hubley Esq. May 17, 1778.

As a result of this remonstration and the petition of the son before noted, the ~~shares~~ ~~as~~ shares were adjudged to John Long, the eldest son and distribution of the proceeds made equally between the widow, Margaret Turbet, except that John was awarded two shares as eldest son under the then Intestate laws. In addition to the four minors above mentioned, one share went to "Robert Long and Isabel his wife" without any statement as to which was the child of the intestate. The inference however would be that Isabel was the widow, otherwise her name would not have been mentioned. If this be so we are unable to place her husband Robert Long. Isabel being the second child, and of age in 1770, while the next younger was a minor, was probably born about 1770 to 1775, too young to have been the wife of Robert Long of Peter's Creek above mentioned who names no wife in his will in 1767, though he probably had two. Neither does Robert Long, the youngest brother of John the Sickle-maker, name any wife in his will in 1767. Neither perpetuated the name of Isabel.

Robert may have been the son of William Long of Drumore hereafter mentioned. The will of Isabella Long, of Chanceryford township, York County, just across the Susquehanna from Drumore, dated January 30, 1814, probated October 19, 1817, mentions children, John, Elizabeth, Hugh, Martha, and George, and a granddaughter Isabel Long, daughter of John. Hugh Long is named as executor.

LONG FAMILY OF DRUMORE TOWNSHIP, LANCASTER COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

JOHN LONG, of Drumore township, Lancaster County, the eldest of three brothers said to have been the sons of Hugh Long, and grandsons of Robert Long, was born in the year 1726, as shown by his tombstone on the old graveyard at Chestnut Level Presbyterian Church, in the township in which he lived and of which he was many years an elder. On June 14, 1755, he purchased of Joseph Irwin a tract of 175 acres in Drumore township, which Irwin had purchased of William Craig by deed dated May 4, 1743, and which had been granted to Craig by John, Thomas and Richard Penn.

John Long also received a patent from the Penns for 157 acres and allowance, in Martick township, dated September 2, 1762, adjoining lands of Hugh Long, and others, which he likewise owned until his death. On his Drumore homestead he erected a sickle-making factory which he conducted until his death and the business was continued by his sons and grandsons, there and in several other localities. The site of the old sickle factory is still visible on the homestead plantation now occupied by his great-great-grandson William Long.

John Long evidently took an active part in public affairs in his native or at least resident township. At the outbreak of the Revolutionary War he was one of the foremost patriots of his section, and was Selected as the representative of his township in the Lancaster County Committee of Safety, in 1775. He also saw active military service, being enrolled as a member of Captain Well's Company, Colonel Thomas Porter's Battalion, which, when the enrollment of the battalion was made August 15, 1776, was, "On the March for the Jerseys" to support General Washington in his attack on Howe on Long Island. Evans in his History of Chester Lancaster County, says he was a Captain in the Revolutionary War, but of this we have no record. He was however a member of Captain John Caldwell's Company from Drumore, in 1780, "in the Bounds of the Wastren Company of Drumore Township, in the Sixth Lancaster Battallion" enrolled May 25, 1780. See Pennsylvania Archives, Fifth Series, Volume VIII, page 655. Being the only Long in the list, which purports to be "a full list of those fit for ~~in~~ⁱⁿ military duty in the said District between the ages of 15 and 53 years."

Evans in his History of Lancaster County also states that John Long was a member of the state Legislature.

John Long, Sr. of Drumore Township was appointed guardian for Martha and Patrick Long, minor children of John Long, in 1773.

John Long married about 1719, Mary Helm, who survived him nearly a half century dying November 10, 1763 at the age of eighty-seven years. She is supposed to have been a daughter of Henry and Rebecca Helm, for some years residents of Minions Township, but later of the town of Lancaster. Henry Helm was similarly on several marriage license bonds in Lancaster County, in 1752, and in 1765. On November 6, 1762, he purchased a tract of land "on the Great Chestnoge Creek, near Lancaster" which with his wife Rebecca he conveys in 1768, and 1772, their residence in these deeds being given as the Borough of Lancaster, and his occupation as "Treasurer" in 1768, and "Conduaine" in 1772, the deed of the latter date being for property of "Adam Skellin, former husband of Rebecca, now the wife of said Henry Helm."

John Long died on his Drumore plantation about September 1, 1783, leaving a will which he had dictated to Rev. James Latta, pastor of Chestnut Level Presbyterian Church, but which he failed to sign, becoming too weak with his fatal sickness by the time it was completed. The will is as follows, entered of record at Lancaster and Letters Cum testamento an-

This is then his son John Ely, I will be compelled to a loss of five pages, that this document been kept by me and noted and learned by him to transcribe a perfect copy of the will of the said John at his request, which he accordingly did and on the order remain before his death brought the fair copy to me No. 5 and accompanied it with a copy of the later's affidavit of his Swelling mother Mrs. John Ely, fully executed as will be recited, the will nowise having been read and much disturbed by sickness to read it to the said John. Now the opinion of this instrument the 10 June 1877 is as follows: "I, John Ely, of the said will in common right and fully considering the same, do make and declare this instrument in most careful and particular manner as I can, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, to be a true copy of the original will of the said John Ely, according to the true intent and meaning of the said John Ely, in and under his own handwriting. In the presence of the subscriber, this before the 10th day of June, 1877.

John and Mary (Hahn) Long, had ten children who survived them, another Henry Long, died at the age of 17 years, August 17, 1770, a little over two weeks before the birth of their fifth son, whom they also named Henry Long. The ~~ten~~ children in the order of their birth as near as can be ascertained were as follows:-

Hugh Long, born 1760, died 1770, married to Anna Lewis.

Henry Long, born 1762, died August 16, 1770, buried at Chestnut Level.

John Long, who was living in Franklin County, Pennsylvania, April 2, 1800, when he joined in the deed for the conveyance of his father's plantation in Newfield, Lancaster. His occupation as given in that deed was "Carter", from which we are to infer that he was following the family trade of a pickle maker. His wife joined him in the deed, but family records say that he was twice married, first to a McCoy and second to a McElroy. No record of his children has been obtained.

Rebecca Long, born Col. John ; died married, James Parker, of York.

James Long, born February 15, 1763, died August 15, 1857; married Margaret Buchanan. An account of his descendants will be given later.

Martha Long, born 1765, died October 5, 1815; married John Buchanan, Esq. many years a Justice of the Peace of Lancaster County and otherwise prominent in public affairs, died 1798, died August 10, 1851.

Mary Long, born March 21, 1767, died March 17, 1850, married Arthur Buchanan, born 1770, died January 17, 1850.

Some account of the Buchanan family will be given later in this narrative.

Robert Long, born August 17, 1769, died March 17, 1850; married December 29, 1800, Anna Lampert, of Franklin Township, Lancaster, and their descendants will be given later.

Henry Long, born September 2, 1771, died in Franklin Township, Juniata County, July 20, 1857; married Jane Bigham. An account of him and his descendants will be given later.

George Long, M.D., born in Drumore October 26, 1772, died on the homestead there, May 13, 1817, unmarried. He was many years a practicing physician in Drumore. He purchased the homestead at the death of his mother, and being the only unmarried child, probably always resided there with his mother.

REV. JAMES LONG, son of John Long, of the County, brother of John Long, of Drymore, Middlefield, Pa., who, as shown by a narrative of his birth written by himself for a will made in the possession of the family June 22, 1765. He first settled in the State, probably in various capacities, but little is known of his early life. No record has been gathered.

A mortgage is made by John Long, of Middlefield township, and Isabel, his wife, to John and William Long, his brother on two tracts of land in Middlefield, Lancaster County, Pa. He and William Long were members of the 1776 Lancaster County Militia, mustered August 18, 1776, in the 1st Company, 1st Battalion; or rather John James and William Long, sons of Robert Long, were members of Company 1st Battalion, 1st Battalion, at the same date. James Long, son of John, is the only recordable fact that the latter was in the service, and he died in 1778 and William Long died in 1780. No record of his death is to be found, before mentioned. JOHN LONG, son of John and Isabel Long, and James Long, son of John Long, of Middlefield, Lancaster County, Pa., and their John being named for his father, was born in 1760.

James Long, son of John and Isabel Long, of Middlefield, Pa., 1760, but when he died is not known, and it is not possible to learn. He settled the estate of his father, John Long, in Middlefield with the will annexed. His will, dated December 2, 1798, and proved December 29, 1800, states that he died in the year 1798. His tombstone at Chestnut Novel, gives the date of his death as October 11, 1800, and his age as 40 years. He desired "to be buried long, in brother John's grave, when Henry's expository of the Old and New Testaments, three volumes. A letter from Joseph S. Long, Esq., of Drumore, dated July 23, 1909, Esq., who is a great-grandson of James Long the location above mentioned, says, "I have 3 Commentaries of the Old and New Testaments by Father Henry, late Minister of the Gospel at Chestnut, Northumberland, for which the following record appears, 'Also to Long his wife, Roberta, the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and six, in consideration, value of the whole works, seven pounds.' and also "A. Publick Long, Roberta Long was born in the year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred and Six, in June the Twenty second Day." The will further directs that "I bequeath etc. to his niece Martha Brotherton, 'sister to Robert Long, my daughter,' To "sister Isabella Long son Robert," "to my wife Elizabeth Roberta ten pounds, out of a debt owed by "Brother George" etc." Robert Long, in his will, bequeath Martha Long, brother Robert's daughter, "one thousand pounds, to be divided among her children, as is "nephew Hugh Long, "brother Robert's son," and "niece Elizabeth Long" unless she was the wife of "Brother Robert." There will make and proved in 1806, mentions no wife. The sister-in-law, Mrs. (Helen) Long, widow of John, was living, but I do not think I could have made an error of the name in abstracting the will.

To, "Well-beloved brother Robert Long will be bequeath two thirds of the net residue of his estate and the other one third to his four children Hugh, John, Martha and Margaret, and Robert and his son Hugh are named as executors.

I am unable to ascertain the wife of Robert's daughter "Elizabeth Long" unless she was the wife of "Brother Robert." There will make and proved in 1806, mentions no wife. The sister-in-law, Mrs. (Helen) Long, widow of John, was living, but I do not think I could have made an error of the name in abstracting the will.

chased it out adjoining, as by his will he "divided" the place that I now live on together with the improvements, appertaining to a division line hereinafter mentioned, also "fifty-five acres of land in the lands of John Buchanan and Hugh Christie, to hold to him and his heirs and assigns forever." This son John Long was thenceforth known as "John Long of Fishing Creek" to distinguish him from his cousin John Long of "Long's Hill", who was the eldest son of his uncle Hugh Christie.

To his other three sons, John, David and James, he gave property to be held by them equally, and each to have and to hold to himself, to himself, to hold &c^r and &c^r for ever, "the land in the middle of the Great Road leading from the Mill at the corner of the road leading to Hugh Christie's and my corner, adjoining the road leading to the Mill, and in the middle of said road to the Mill, and the land leading to the Mill, running off one field joining lands of John Buchanan and Hugh Christie till it strikes John Buchanan's line, and the land of John, David Parry, Joseph Smith, and John Long, and the land leading to the place of beginning." The property of the three sons was so apportioned,

On January 10, 1798, John Long, and John Cudler, both of the township of Drumore, sold to John and James Cudler, a tract of land to their brother James Cudler, "the land of John Cudler, of the same year January 10, 1798, and the land of John Cudler, and three acres and thirty-three perches, lying and being in the tract containing John Long and Joseph Cudler, to James Cudler, and John Cudler, and the land of John Cudler to James Cudler, and John Long, the land of John Cudler, "the land of Fishing Creek School" and their successors in the same, a small tract of land out the above of acres, at the intersection of the "Great Road leading from Benjamin Harrold's Tavern to Penrose's Mill, with the Great Road leading from Benjamin Harrold's Tavern to Penrose's Mill, ROBERT LONG, seventh eighth child and fifth son of John and Mary (Helm) Long, (if we include the son Henry, who died in boyhood), was born in Drumore township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, August 10, 1774, and was therefore but nine years of age at the death of his father. He doubtless received the education prescribed in his father's will for his ~~children~~ in the following clause, "It is my will that while she (the wife, say) continues my widow, all my children should live and continue with her until their come of age, marry or go to learn some trade, during which time it is my will that she enjoy the benefits of their industry in order to enable her to maintain, clothe and educate them so that my sole children shall be able to read and write and understand the Common Rule of arithmetic, and the females to read and write." He evidently chose to learn his father's trade, and succeeded his elder brothers James and John in the use of the shop, on their coming of age, under the provisions of the will, as ~~he~~ was still in Drumore in 1800, at which date we find both the elder brothers removed to other counties at that date; while the two younger sons, Henry and George, took the other provision of the same clause and sought other vocations at the age of sixteen years.

According to the records of Fayette County, and the family record, however he began to look about for another location than his native county and township, on coming of age in 1793, and in the Fall of 1801, purchased a plantation of Thomas Ball, on George's Creek, in Spring Hill township, Fayette County, Pennsylvania, in the section long claimed and originally settled under Virginia Patents. He did not however, locate there until at least a year later, but continued to work at his trade of a sickle maker in Drumore, Lancaster County. According to family history he erected his sickle factory on George's Creek in the "Fall of 1797" "converting the old log grist mill built by William Griffin, into a suitable building for that purpose, where he manufactured sickles on a large scale, using the water power to run a trip-hammer, grindstones, turning lathes, etc." In the absence of authentic records to the contrary it would be safer to assume that his removal to Fayette County, was three years later. His residence is clearly given in the deed of April 2, 1800, as "Drumore township, Lancaster County," and occupation, "Cutler". The means with which to improve his new purchase was probably derived from this partial settlement of his father's debts, and another corroboration of the date is the return of his brother James to Drumore about 1801 or 1802, to set himself in the sickle making business, doubtless taking the shops vacated by Robert at the old homestead until his own purchase in 1800. In 1806, Robert Long purchased additional land in Spring Hill, township, Fayette County. In 1807, he erected a grist and flour mill across the creek from his sickle factory, and in 1807 erected a brick house on his plantation, the first to be erected in southern Fayette County. He was an industrious, frugal, and enterprising man, and met with success in his business undertakings, and reared a large family of children. He was active in the temperance cause, and a public spirited citizen, and a God-fearing Christian gentleman.

(or January 1803)

Robert Long married December 20, 1802, Jean Harah, who was born in Rosstraver township, ~~West~~^{near} West Newton, on the Monongahela river, April 9, 1786, soon after the settlement of her parents, Charles and Margaret (Gilchrist) ^{Harah} in that township. The birthplace of Charles Harrah is unknown. His wife owed mother Agn's Harrah, was a resident of West Nottingham township, Chester County, Pennsylvania, just across the Delaware from Little Britain township, Lancaster County, in 1765, and was taxed there for 100 acres of land in that year. From 1771, to her death in 1790, she was a resident of Drumore township, Lancaster County, and was taxed there for 120 acres of land from 1771 to 1778; in the latter year for 180 acres and in 1782 for 150 acres. Her will dated Nov 9, 1782 and probated November 5, 1790, devises her estate to her son Charles and her daughter Mary, and names her son-in-law Alexander Downing and James Dixon, as executors.

Charles Harrah, was born, according to a will record in possession of his great-grandson George ^{S.} Harrah, cashier of the Second National Bank of Uniontown, Fayette County, Pennsylvania, on February 8, 1744. He was a resident of Little Britain township, Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, until the breaking out of the Revolutionary War. He was taxed for 150 acres in Little Britain in 1771; for 200 acres in 1772; and for 300 acres in 1773. The other tax lists for the period prior to the Revolution do not seem to have been preserved.

Charles Harrah, was a private in Captain Robert Campbell's Company, in Colonel Thomas Porter's Battalion, Lancaster County Militia, which company, "Destined for the Camp in the Jersey", was "mustered and passed by the Committee of Observation and Inspection of Lancaster County, on the Fifth 15th Day of August 1776." See Penna. Archives Second Series vol. VII, page 1060. This Company participated in the battle of Long Island, two weeks later, and with other companies of the Flying Camp, and Associated Battalions, was disbanded in the Fall of 1776 or Spring of 1777. Charles Harrah took the oath of allegiance required by the Act of Assembly of 1777, on July 1, 1777, in Little Britain township, Lancaster County. He was taxed for 370 acres of land in Rostraver township, Westmoreland County, for the year 1783, and for 1786, later tax lists have not been examined. A family memorandum says that he served in the militia during the "Whiskey Insurrection" from Elizabeth township, Allegheny County.

Rostraver township in the extreme southern corner of Westmoreland County, lying between the Monongahela and Youghiogheny rivers, and bordering on Elizabeth township, Allegheny on the north, Washington County, across the Monongahela, on the West; Spring Hill township on the south, and West Newton, near where Jacob (Marah) Long is said to have been born is just across the Youghiogheny in South Elizabeth township which bounds Rostraver on the east. Charles Marah died 1801.

He married in 1791, Margaret Gilchrist, born in Little Britain township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, October 7, 1774, daughter of James and Sarah Gilchrist, and granddaughter of John Gilchrist, of Little Britain.

James Gilchrist, died in Little Britain township, leaving a will dated April 26, 1782, which was probated June 6, 1782. It leaves legacies to his wife Sarah, and children, Margaret, wife of Charles Marah; and Sarah wife of James Robertson. His real estate to pass to his grandsons James and Alexander Marah, on their coming of age. By deed dated April 2, 1801, James Gilchrist Marah, Esq., of Allegheny County, for himself and as attorney in fact for his brother Alexander Marah, convey 150 acres of land in Little Britain township Lancaster County, Pennsylvania to William Barkley, the deed reciting the grant of the land to John Gilchrist or Gilchrist, -300 acres of Milcomb Island on the West side of the Conestoga Creek, August 1745- and the conveyance of 150 acres thereof by John Gilchrist, to his son James, and the will of the latter devising it to his said grandsons.
